Above is a sampling of names of teens and adults I have ministered to or with over the last nine years. Each name belongs to the face of someone that God has allowed me to touch in big or small ways.

By the way... WE'RE GOING TO BE PARENTS!

As I've been thinking back over the past nine years it's the thought of the hundreds of lives mine has intersected with that I find the most humbling.

In the middle of daily life and ministry one sees the individuals rather than the masses so taking a step back has been surprising for me. When I think in sheer numbers it makes me thankful that God has allowed me the privilege of touching so many lives. It also causes me to pray that God would have used me in good ways in all those lives!

This was the 9th camp backdrop I've worked on. This was my last big project. Thanks to Rachel Mast for help this year. Huge thanks to my Mom for all her help with all of the backdrops I've done and to my Dad for moving them!

My new mission field. ETA: October 21

AN INTRODUCTION:

The work continues! The ministries I've been involved in are going to keep going thanks to several people. I would like to introduce you to one of them: Sara Kellar.

I have been mentoring Sara (read "grooming to take my place") for five years. She is presently in the process of joining CSSM Ministries. If you would like to support her, send your financial gift to the Ontario office with a separate note that it is for Sara Kellar's support. Thank you!

SOME THANK YOUS

- To my parents, Phil and Justina Friesen, who have been praying for and supporting me long before I became a 'missionary.' Thanks for standing with me right from the beginning.
- To my Grandpa Friesen for showing that he believed in what I was doing by becoming my very first monthly financial supporter, even before I joined CSSM Ministries.
- To Mark and Tina Mast for being role models as missionaries and for giving me the room and encouragement to grow into leadership and spiritual maturity.
- To my mentors: Norma Sullivan, Andrew Hall and Carmela Klug. You each, in your own way and time, have had a huge role in shaping who I am and what I believe. Thank you for the many hours and prayers.
- To my financial supporters for the blessing you have been to me over the years. Many times your support has made me a more thankful person.
- To my prayer supporters, even though I don't have a list so I have no idea who you all are. I know your prayers have been effective as God has moved in unseen ways in and through my life.
- To my coworkers, past and present. It's been a joy learning about the body of Christ through you.
- To the teens for giving me a reason to love my job.
- To my husband, Josh, for loving me, pointing me to Jesus and encouraging me in what I was doing.
- To my Heavenly Father, Jesus Christ and the Holy Spirit for bringing me from darkness to light; for giving me a desire to tell others the truths of the gospel and how it affects their everyday life; for giving me strength, creativity and joy for the past nine years; for using even me.
